TITLE: BARKING

AUTHOR: TURID RUGAAS

Barking is more than just an annoyance that causes your neighbors to complain. There's a reason behind your dog's vocalizations.

Learn what your dog is saying in Barking -- The Sound of a Language. Written by dog trainer and behaviorist Turid Rugaas, this gentle training manual teaches you how to understand what your canine is trying to tell you through his bark and body language.

You'll discover how to recognize the six main types and causes of barking – from the warning bark to the excited bark. The author also shows you how to communicate with your canine, and solve his barking issues, using step-by-step training methods and lots of color photos.

As the title indicates, barking is your dog's language. This book gives you a key to that language, enhancing your ability to understand and train him.

TITLE: HELP YOUR DOG FIGHT CANCER, 2ND EDITION

AUTHOR: LAURIE KAPLAN, MSC

One of the hardest things a dog lover has to deal with is learning that her beloved companion has cancer. Laurie Kaplan, administrator of the Magic Bullet Fund and author of the updated second edition of Help Your Dog Fight Cancer—What Every Caretaker Should Know About Canine Cancer, can relate. Her own beloved Siberian husky, Bullet, was diagnosed with lymphoma at the age of nine.

Laurie's book is a wonderful guide to helping your dog fight cancer. Keeping a log, reading up on diagnoses, considering your finances, early detection tips and more are all part of her approach. Laurie uses personal examples from her experiences with Bullet to guide readers in the right direction in their own battle against canine cancer. The book also features Bullet's survival story, proof positive that cancer doesn't have to mean a death sentence.
